- The Public Policy Center has conducted a statewide, survey of Idaho citizens for 20 years. This survey is meant to identify opinions about a variety of public policy concerns. The study is provided to the public – including officials and interested citizens - to facilitate policy discussion and education.
- Adults in 525 Idaho households representing three geographic regions were surveyed between November 18th, 2010 and January 8th, 2011. This is a random sample survey (RDD) to landline telephones and cell phones. Telephone calls, interviews, data collection and data preparation were contracted to Clearwater Research. Analysis and reporting are conducted by Boise State University.
- The survey standard error is +/- 5% at a 95% confidence-level for the total population.

Do you think the State is headed in the right direction?

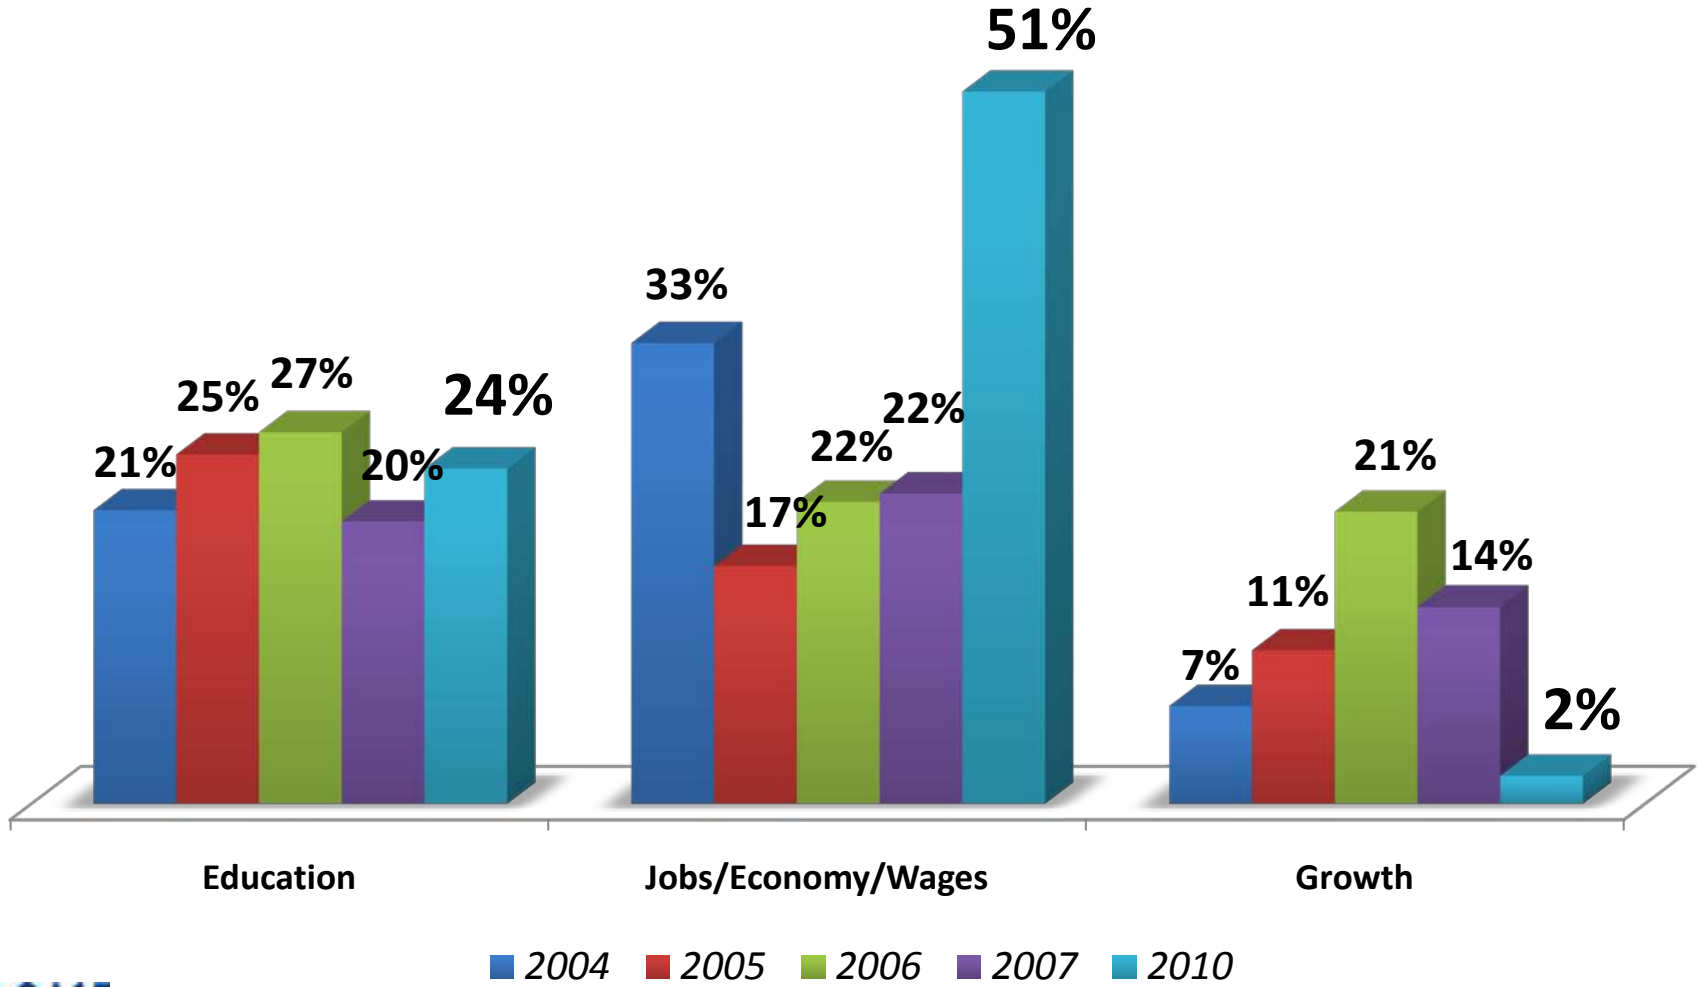

Five year trend – Is the state headed in the right direction?

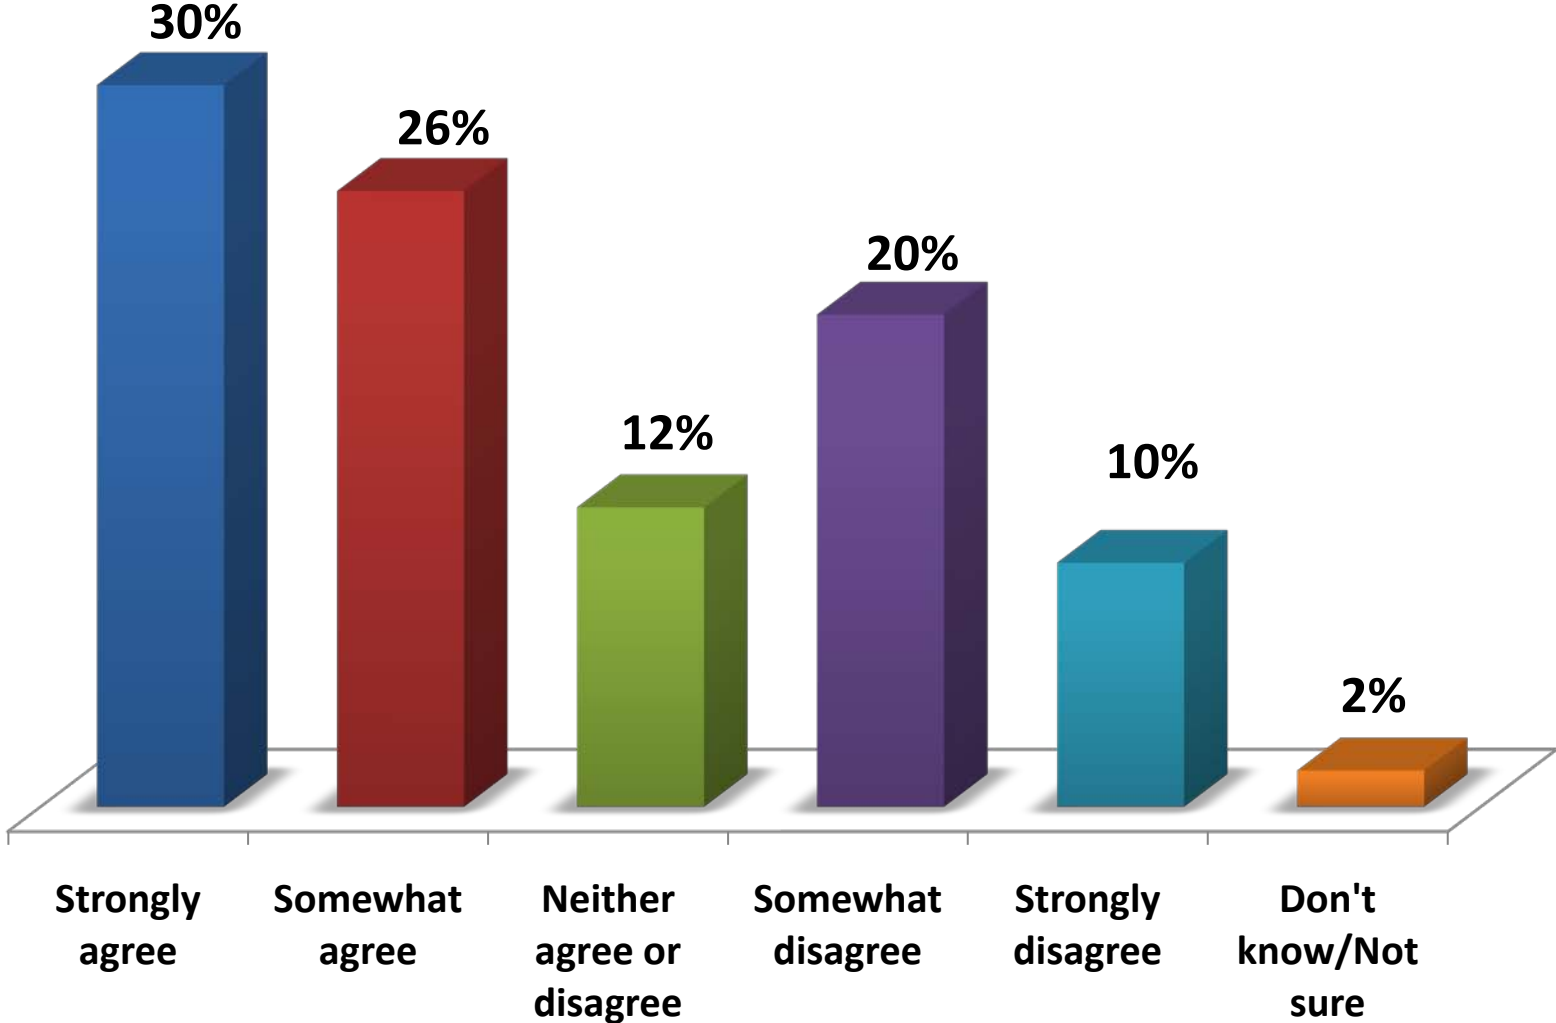

Most important issue facing Idaho today?

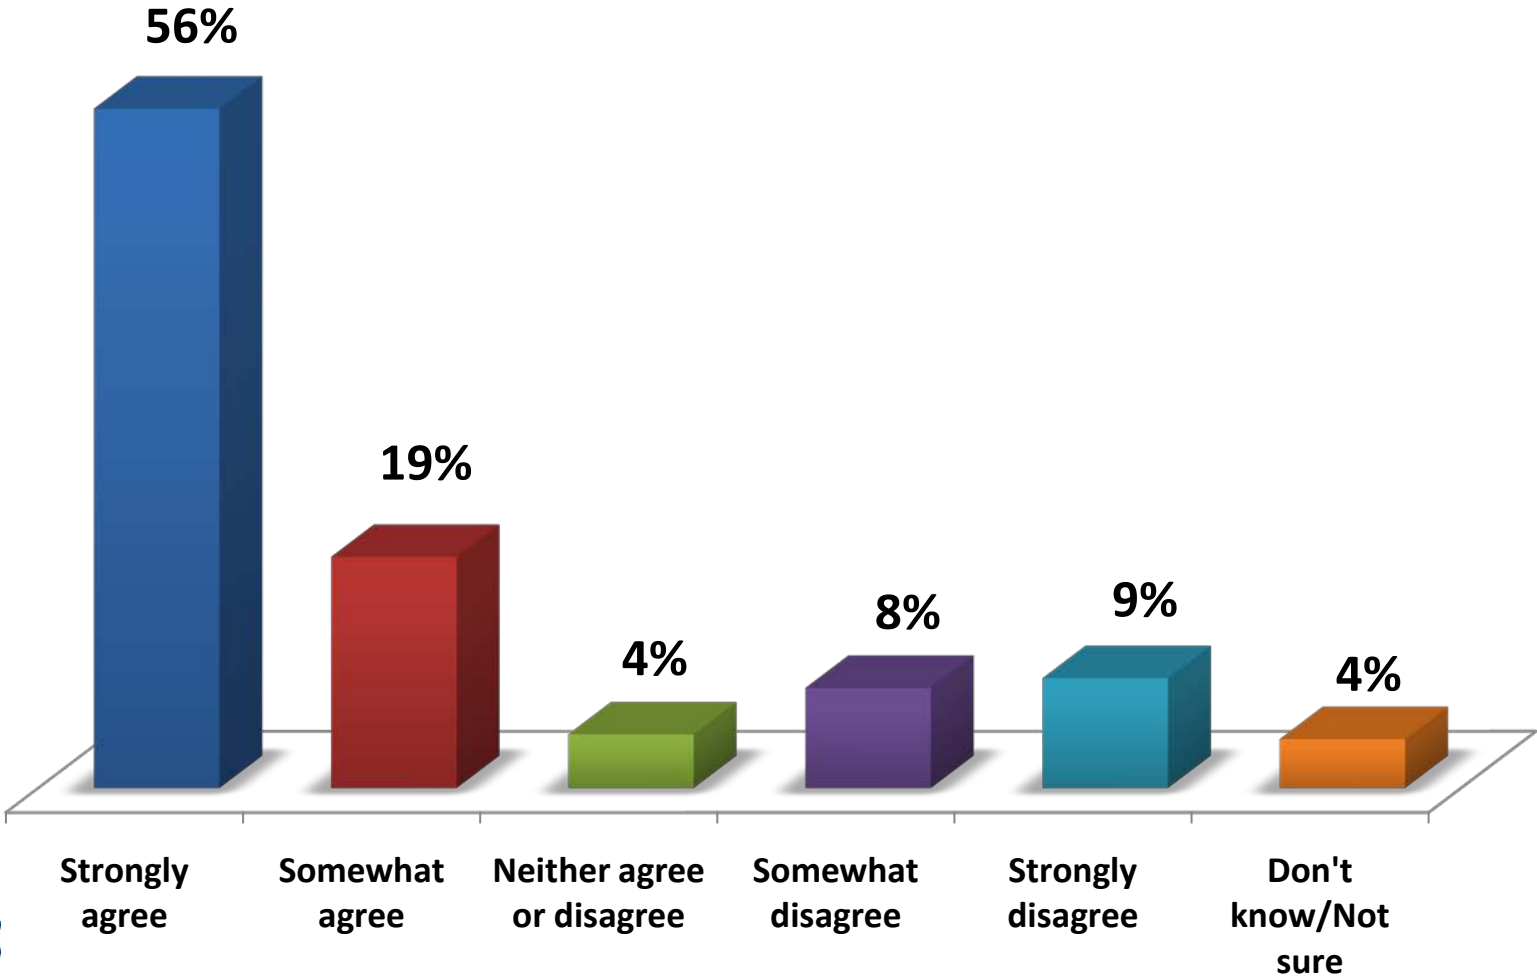

Five year trend– Most important issue facing Idaho today?

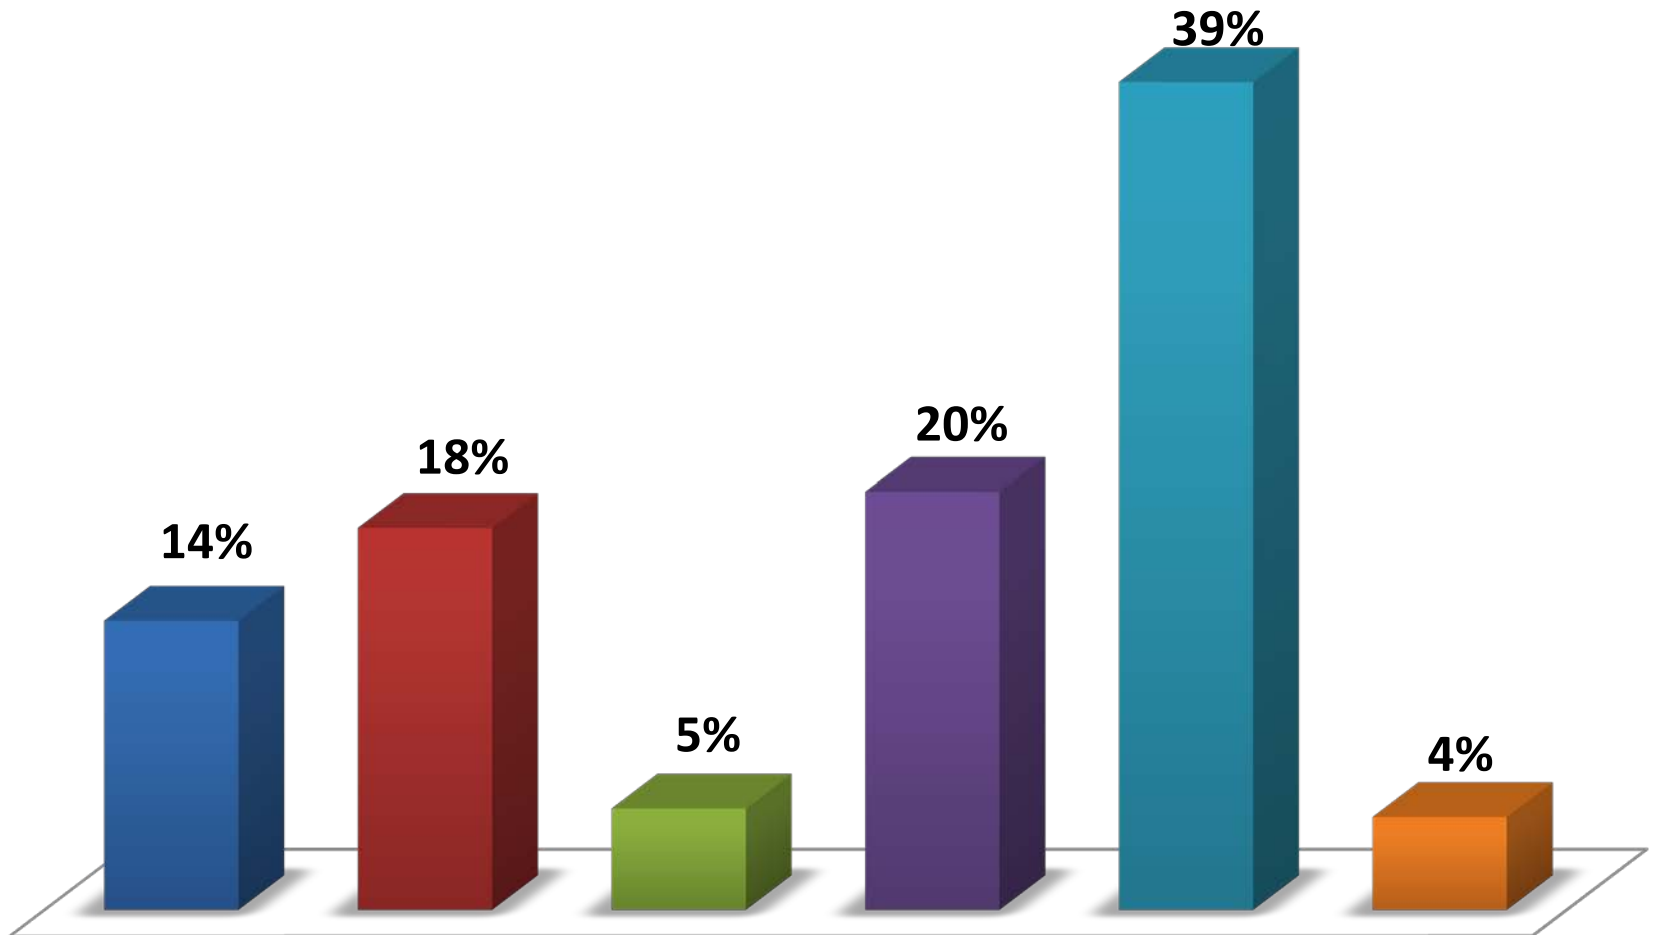

My household has been personally impacted by cuts in State programs and services

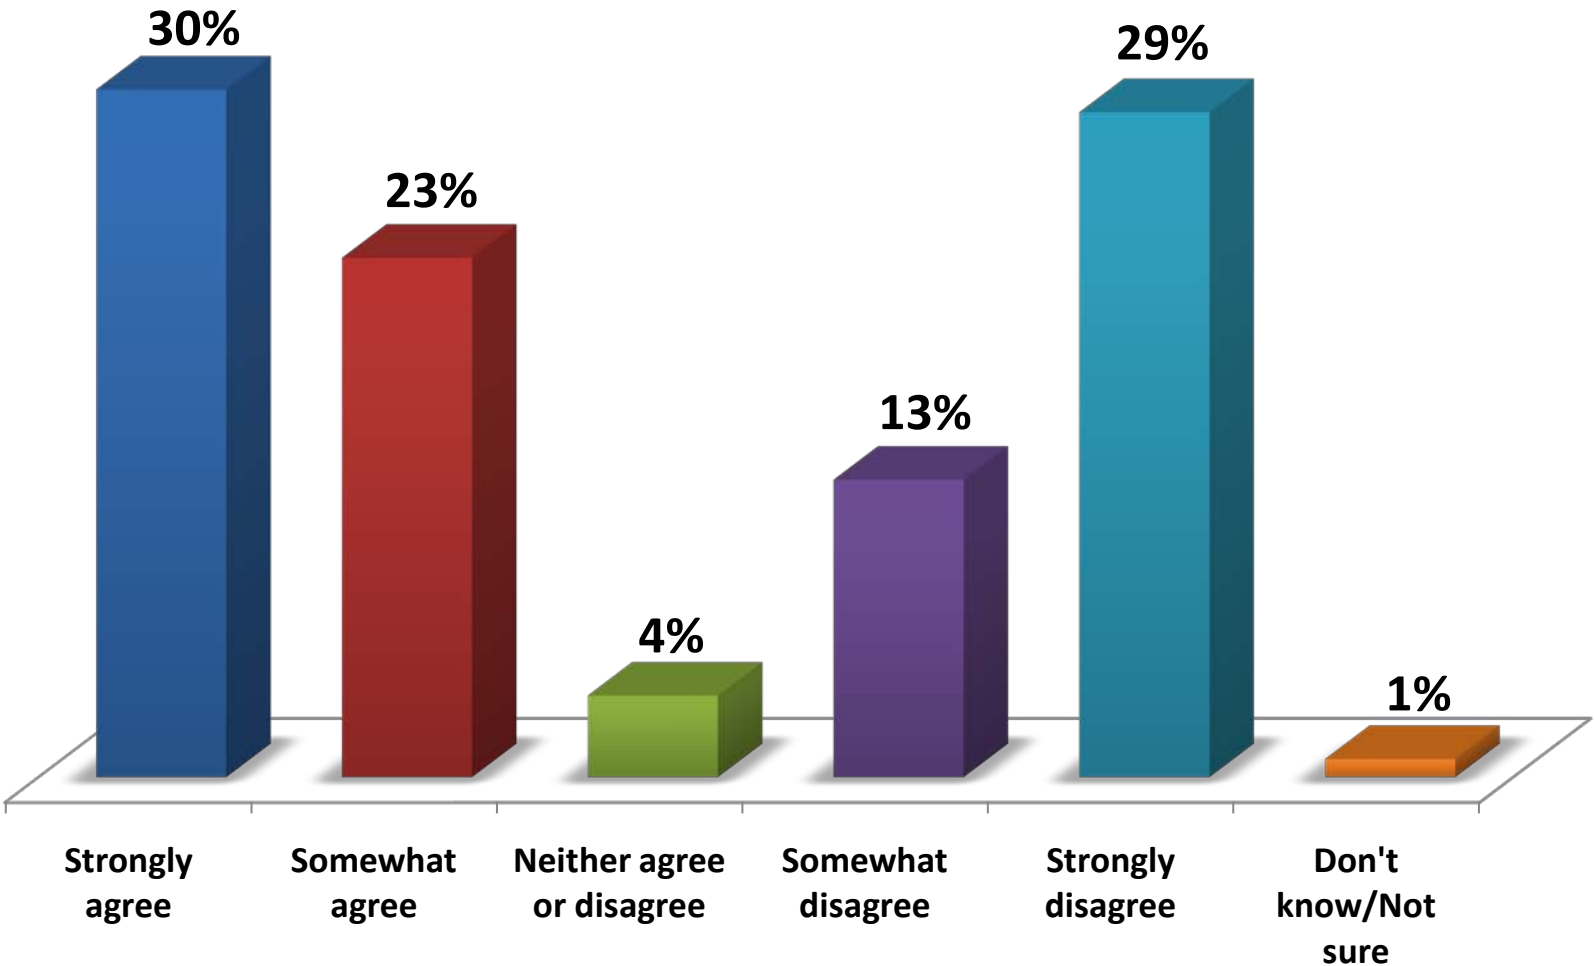

Budget cuts have affected the quality of children's education

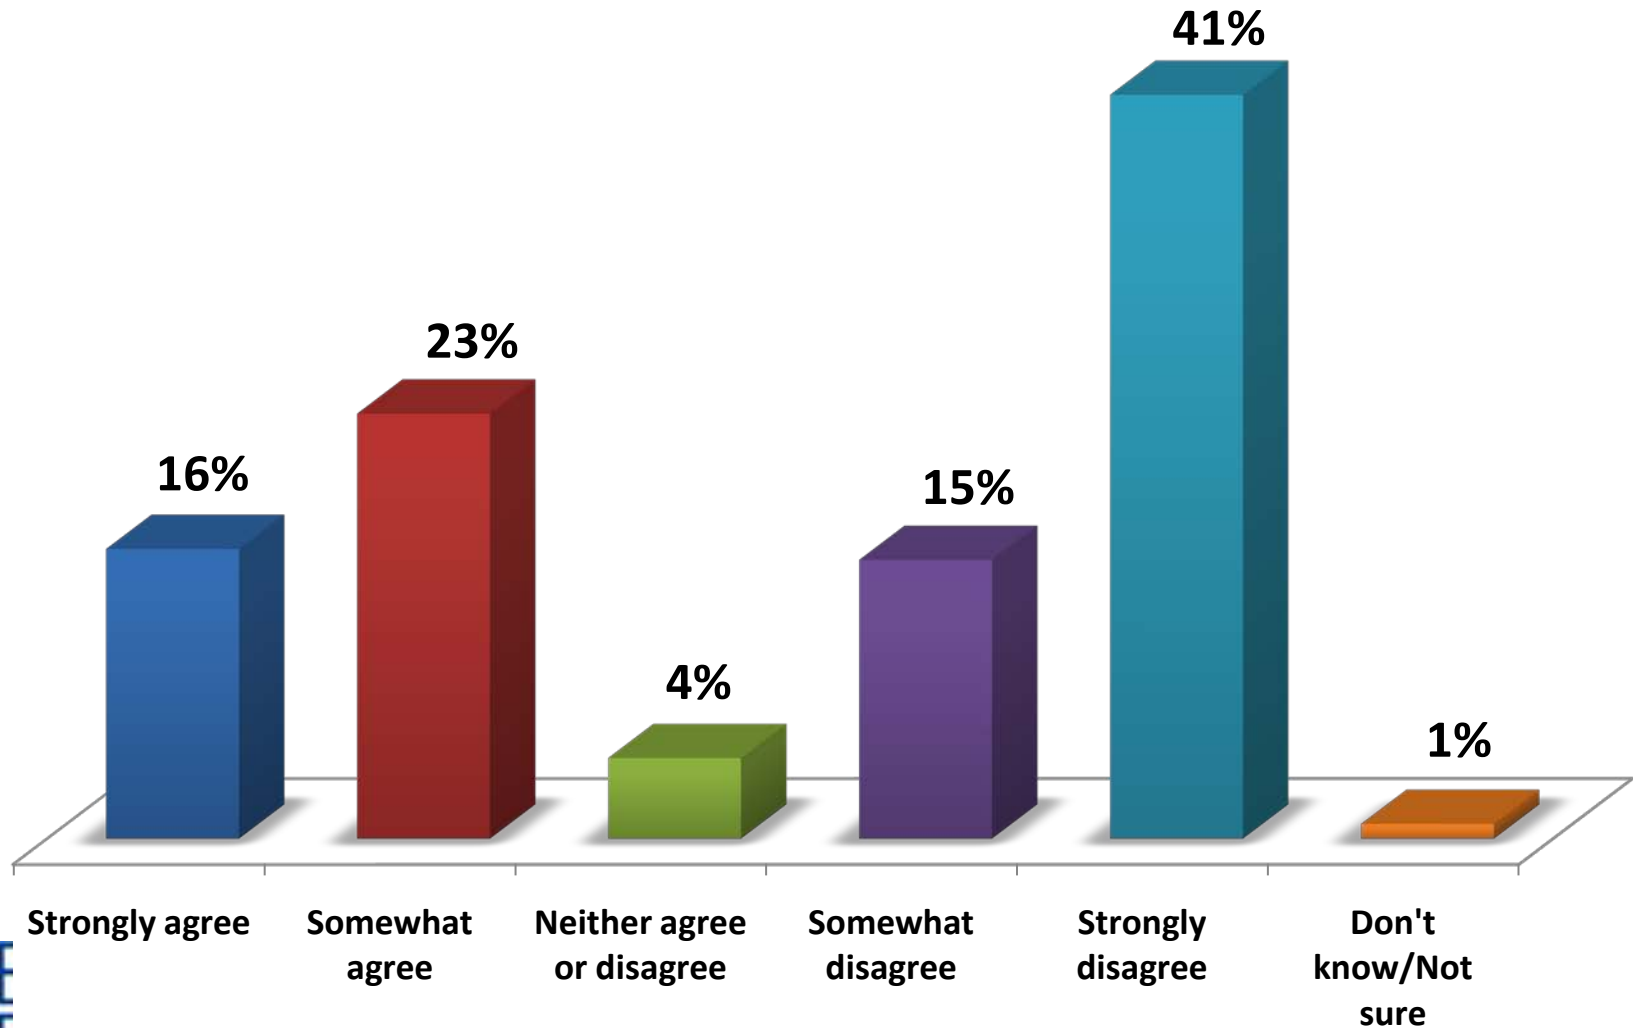

The State is investing enough in higher education in Idaho

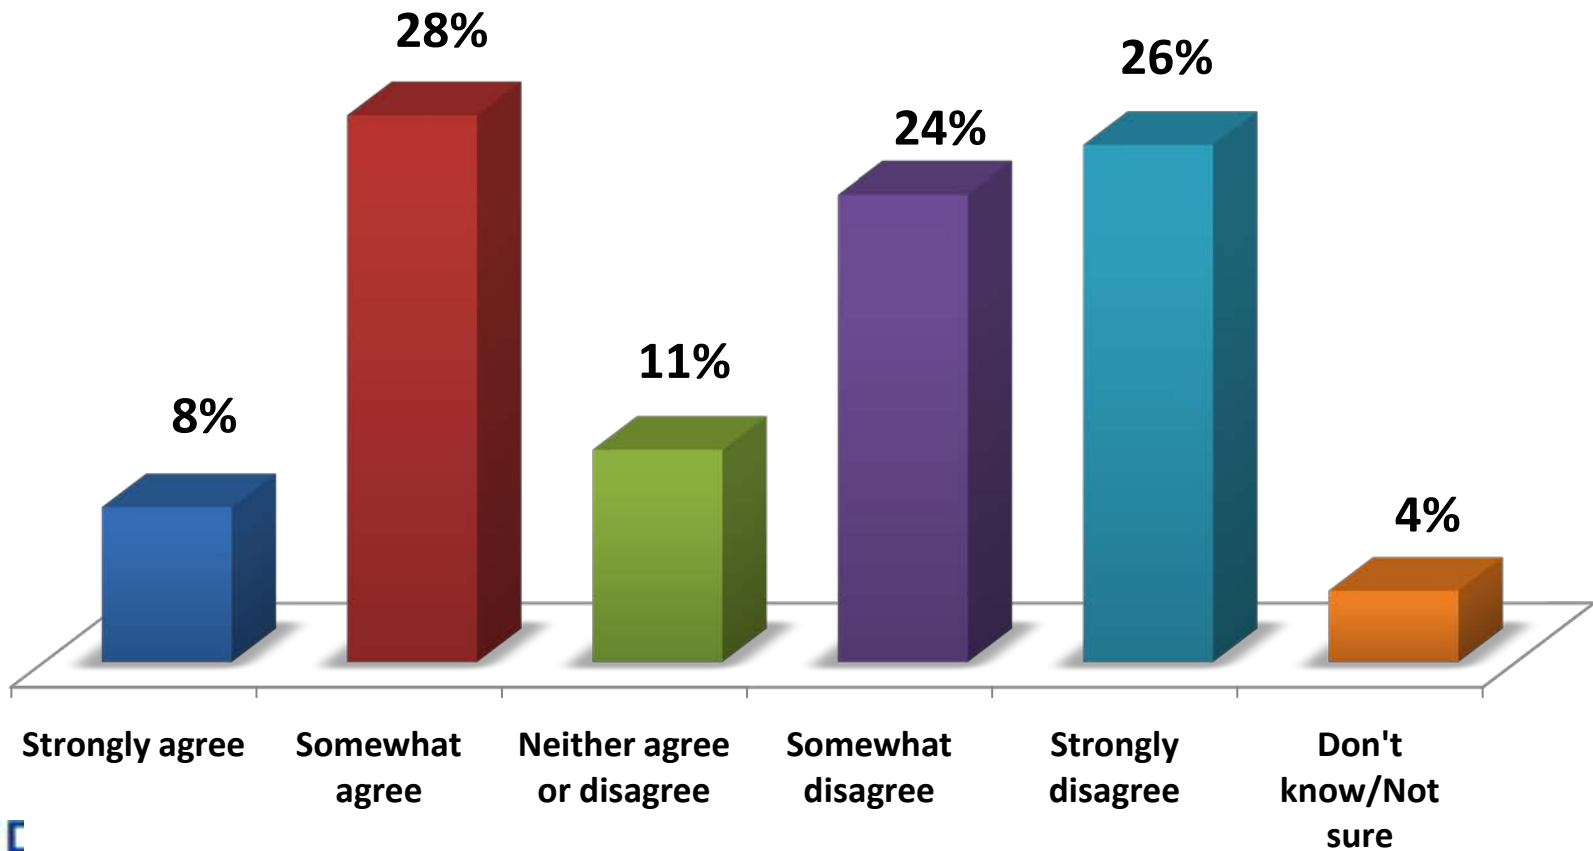

Idaho should raise sales tax to support the K-12 public school budget

Idaho should raise the sales tax by $0.01 to help close the budget gap

The State is doing enough to encourage economic development in your area of the State

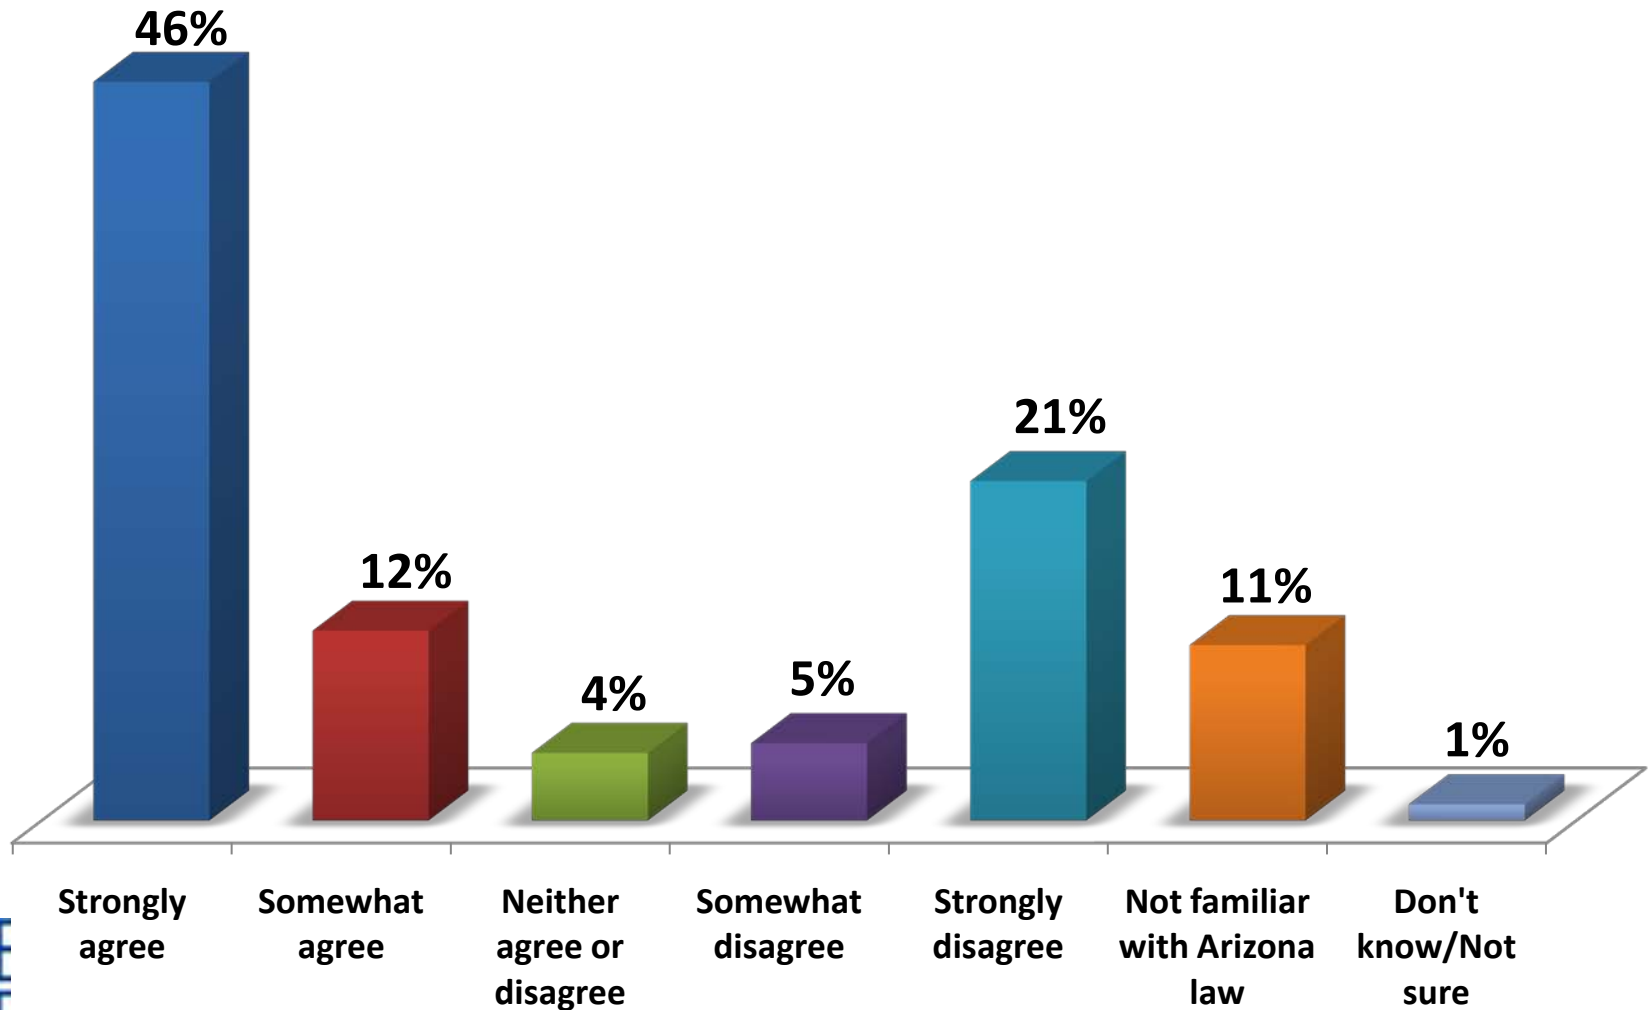

Immigration is a problem in Idaho

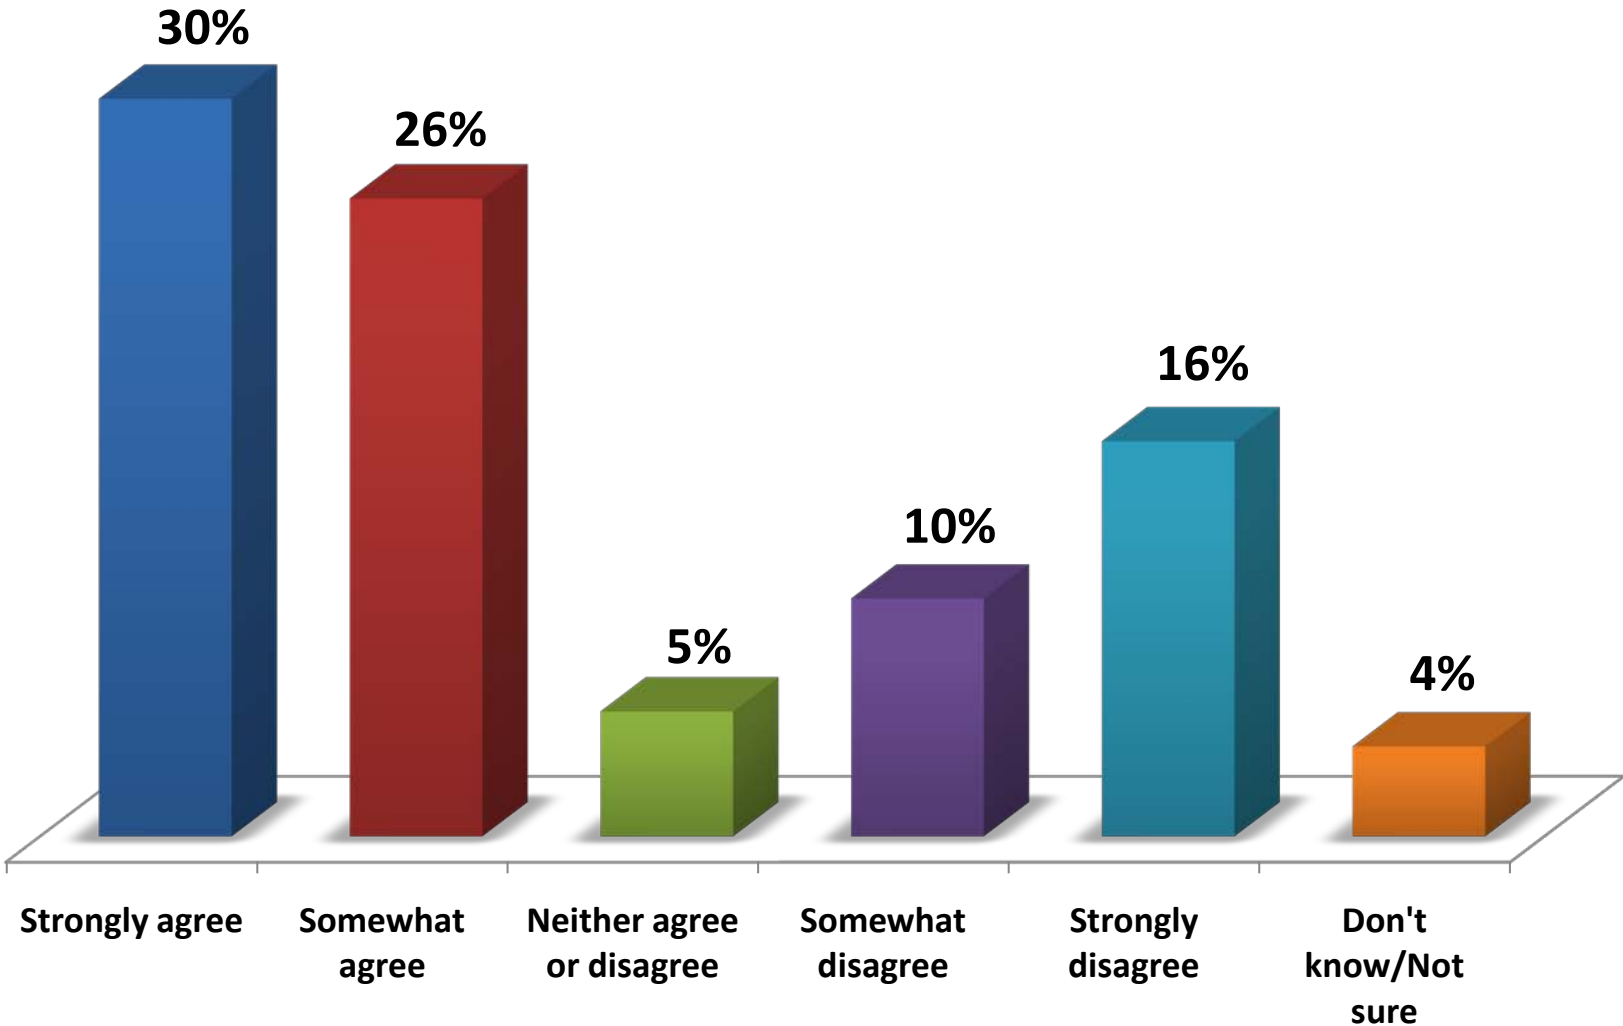

Counties should deny indigent health services to undocumented workers

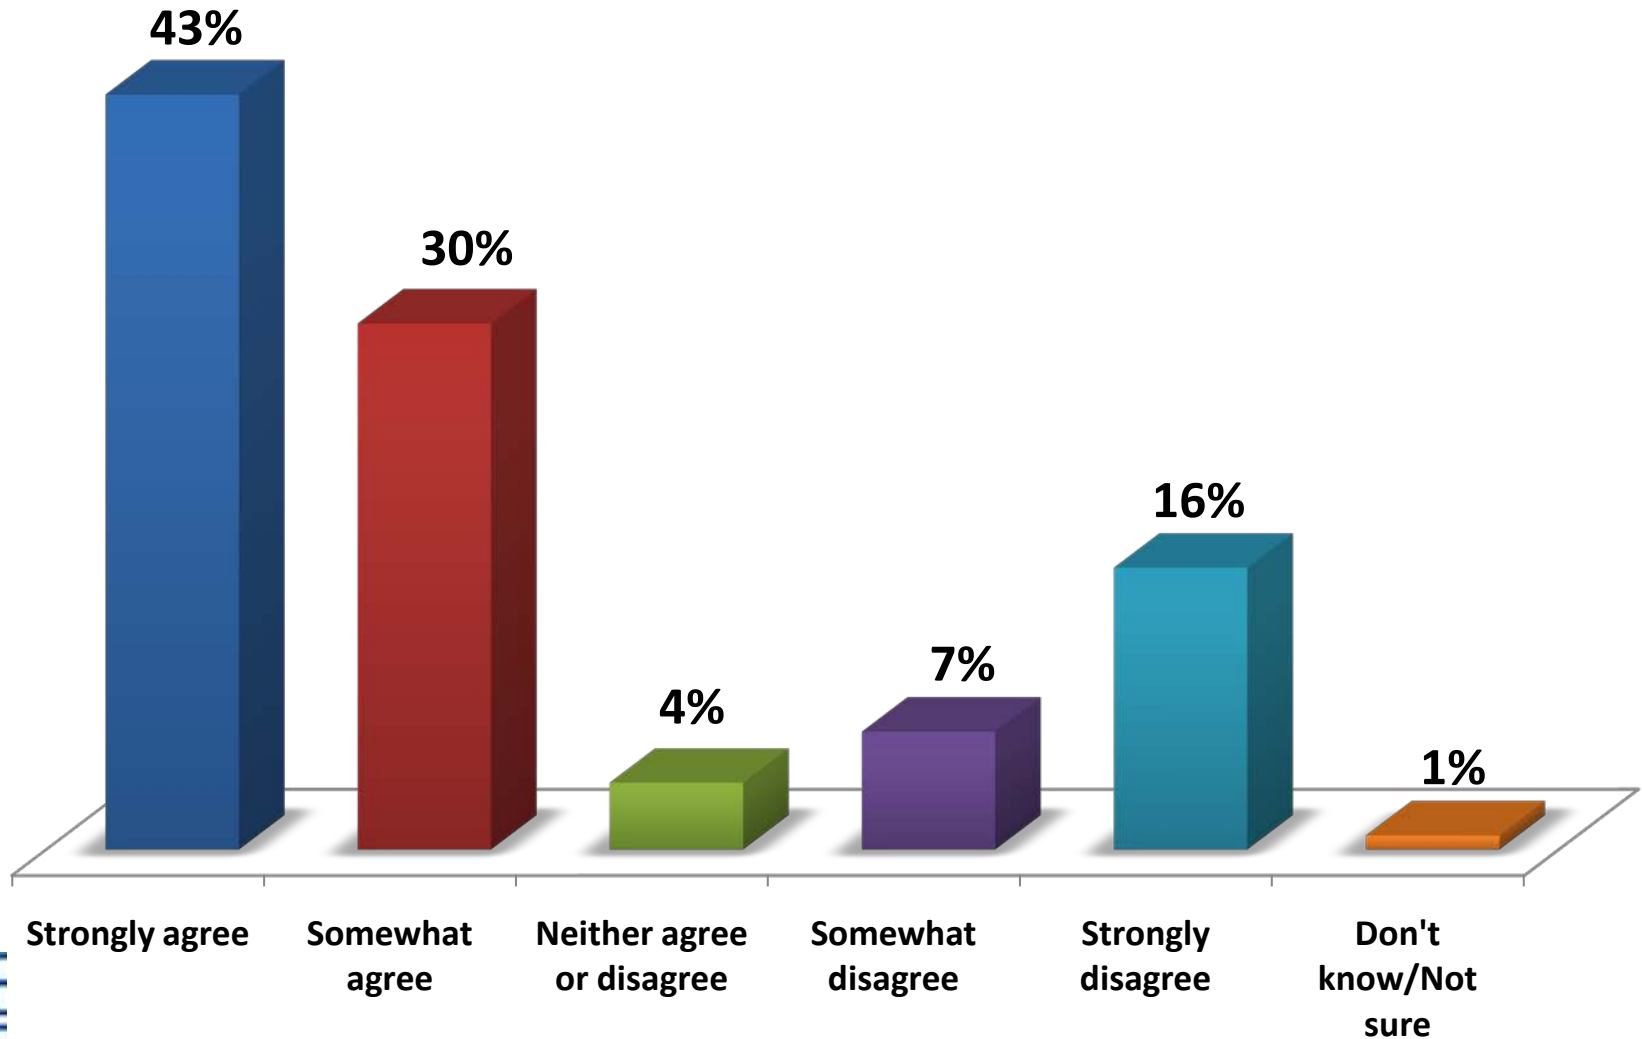

Idaho should pass a law concerning illegal immigrants similar to the law Arizona recently passed

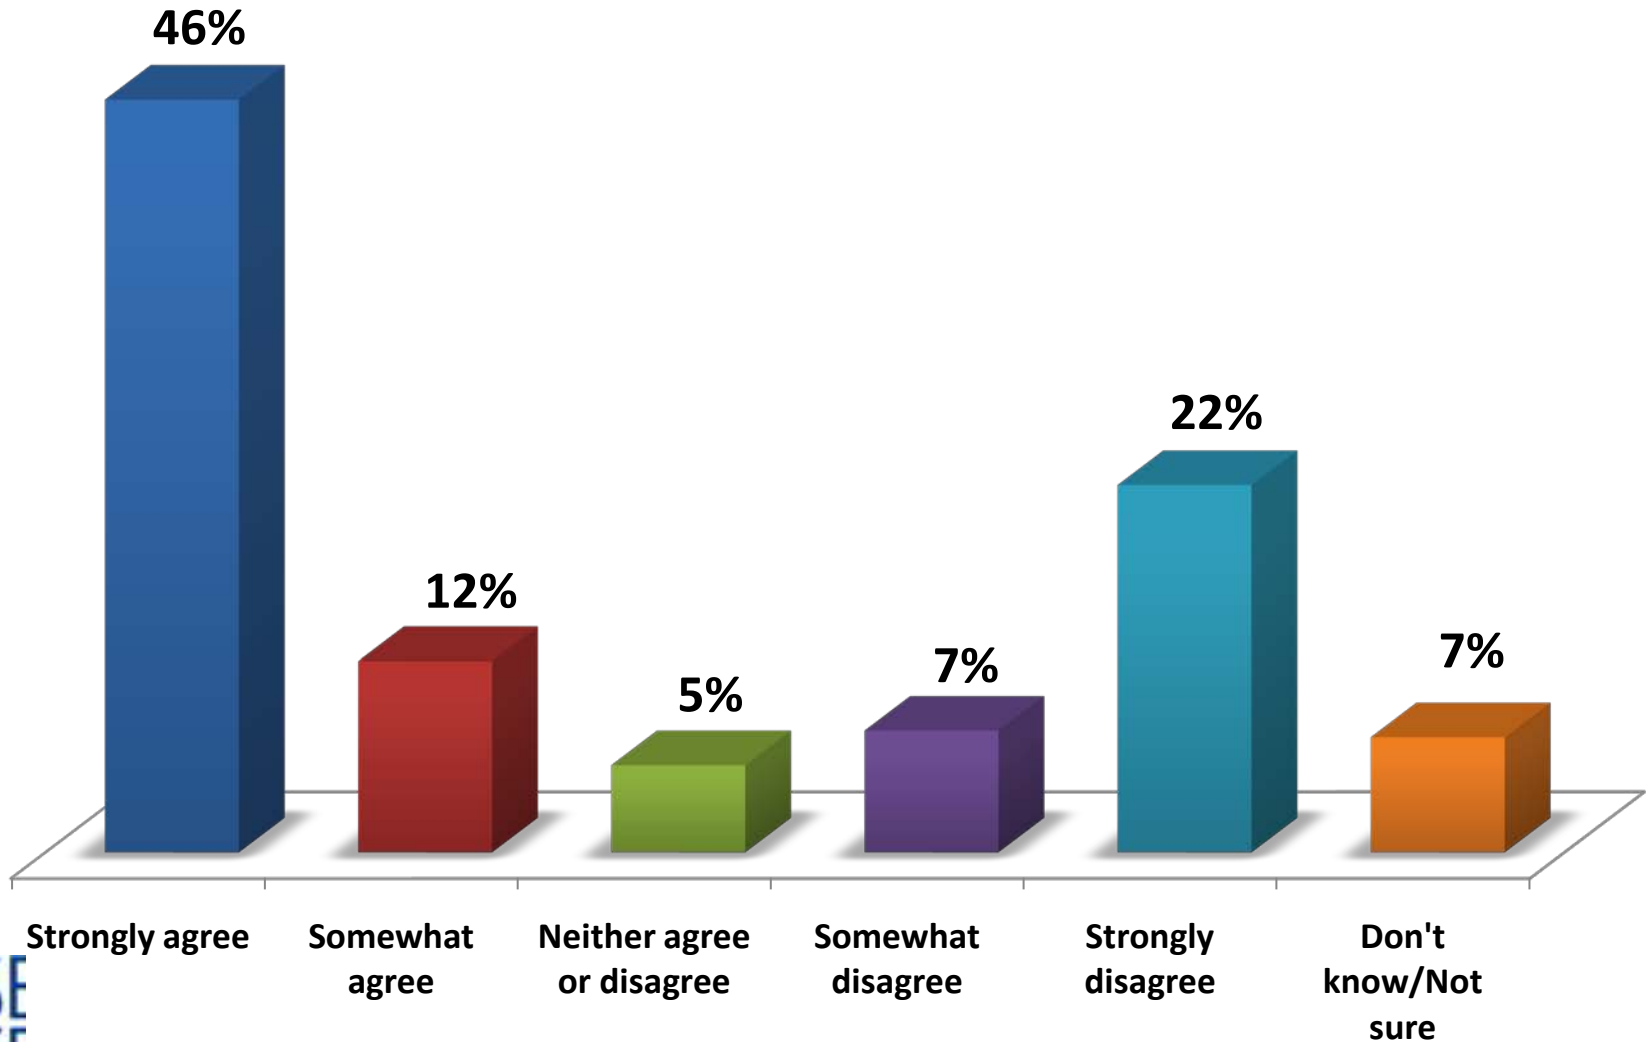

A law similar to Arizona's new immigration law will reduce illegal immigration

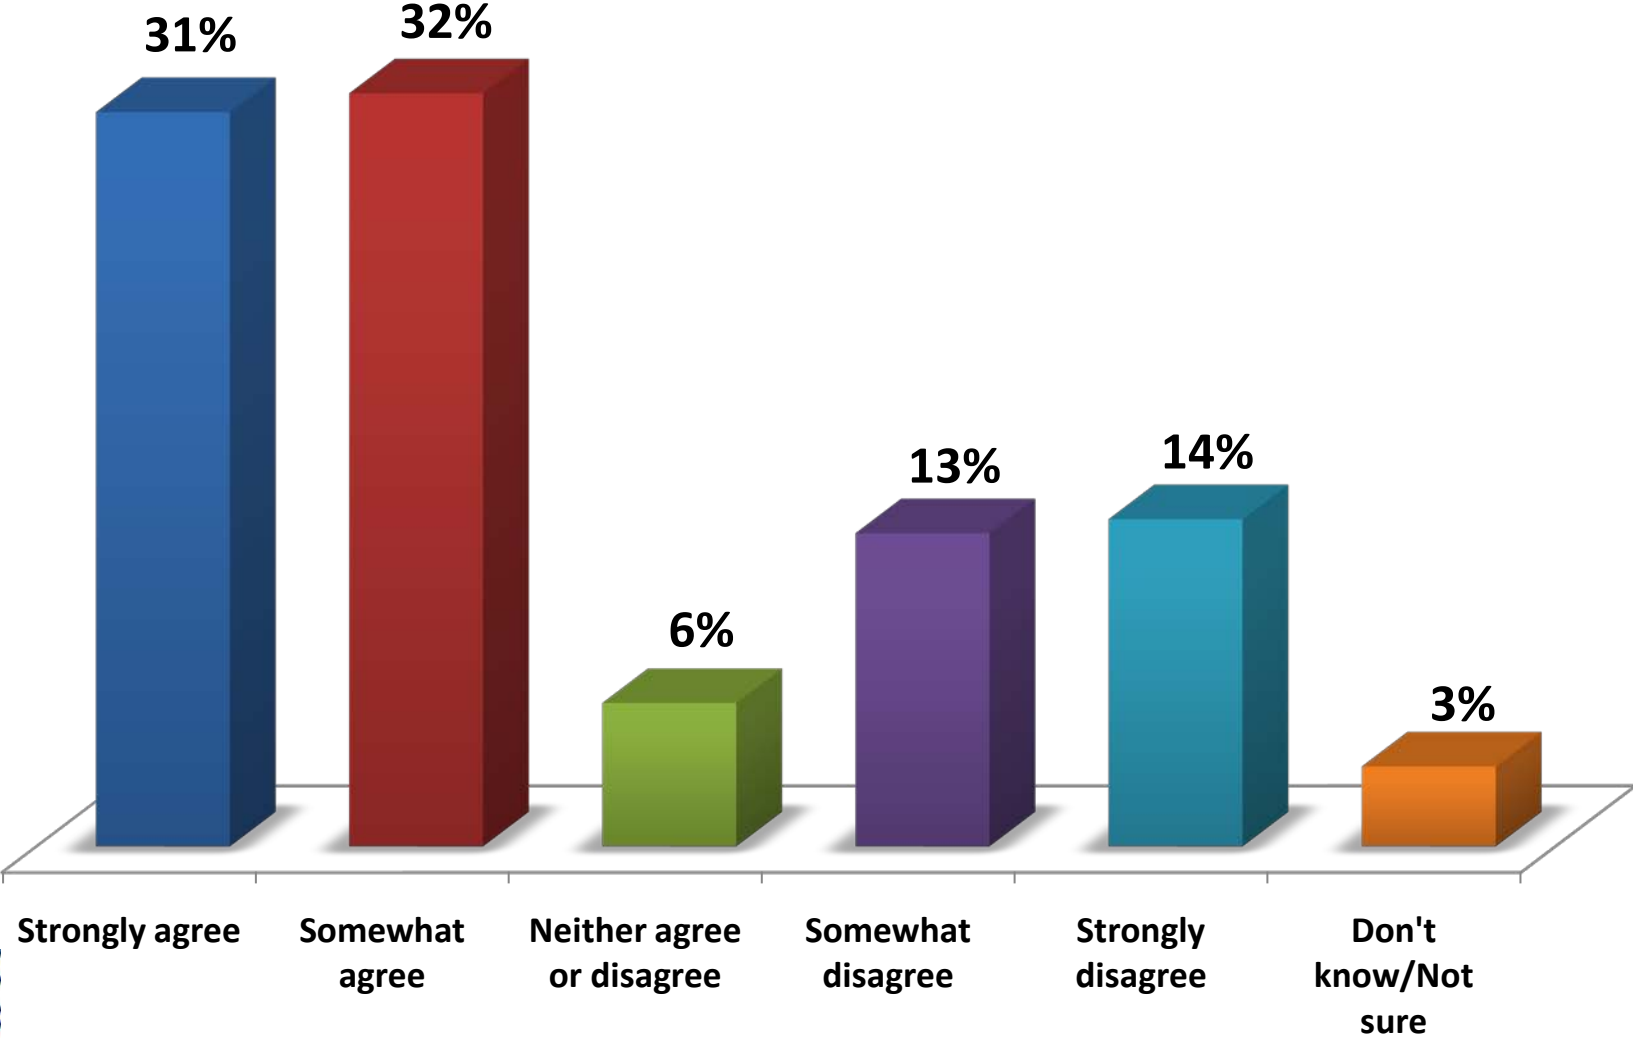

A program should be created that would allow illegal immigrants to stay in this country permanently

Idaho should be able to opt out of the 2010 health care bill

Public funds should be used to help provide health insurance to people who cannot afford it
